

Ebru İter Akarçay is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science and International Relations at Yeditepe University in İstanbul, Turkey. Her research interests include comparative politics, democratization, political institutions, Spanish and Latin American politics. Her previous work focuses on political institutions, policy change and Middle Eastern politics.