

Dr.Volkan İpek received his title from the department of Political Science at Bilkent University on June 2015. Focusing on identity and politics in North Africa as his major, Dr.İpek has also been interested in Sub-Saharan African political economy. Besides his academic pieces published in international journals on Africa and Turkish foreign policy towards Africa in total, Dr.İpek has also professional experiences in several institutions that have been working directly with their African counterparts and African states. Dr.İpek benefitted from the French Embassy's Postdoctorate scholarship recently, which he had the chance to enlarge the scope of his thesis in Bordeaux University. He is currently working as Assistant Professor at the department of Political Science and International Relations at Yeditepe University.